The pending election will not decide it, because if the Liberals are victorious they will find it only the beginning of their task: if the weaker American States are systematically driven to the wall, what chance of fair play would Canada get in a commercial union with America? Without representation in Congress her position would be intolerable, and she would be compelled to abandon commercial union or accept political union. Americans know this and are frank enough to make it the basis of all their dissertations. The Canadians must also know it, but those desiring annexation pretend that it has no necessary connection with unlimited reciprocity. Without expecting Canada to forego any advantage in order to gratify her sentiments, the Canadian people ought to be fairly treated by politicians and not jockeyed into annexation by false pretences. It is very doubtful whether the advantages of annexation would be as great as painted."

Senator Gorman Not a Presidential Candidate-A Forthcoming Statement. [Washington Evening Star, 18th.]

[Washington Evening Star, 18th.]

It is a trifle early in the campaign for gentlemen of any party to decline presidential nominations, but the example set by Mr. Cleveland is being followed. Of course the ex-President's silver letter was not a direct declination, but it had all the effect of a direct refusal. Now it is Senator Gorman who does not want the nomination. When statesmen and others were being interviewed on Mr. Cleveland's most recent metallurgical epistle Senator Gorman was one of the more prominent Democrats who refused to make any pertinent comment. By some this silence was adjudged to be evasive, and a story at once went into circulation in which was a statement that circulation in which was a statement that when the time came, when the voice of the convention was heard in the land, Representative Rusk, of Maryland, land, Representative Rusk, of Maryland, would enter Senator Gorman in the race for the Democratic nomination. Just now Mr. Rusk is paying but little attention to legislative matters, for he is engaged in preparing a statement—to be made public to morrow—in which he will clearly set forth his position and that of Senator Gorman and declare their unfattering loyalty to Grover Cleveland. It is understoood that Mr. Rusk will furthermore state that Maryland will send a solid Cleveland delegation to the next convention, even if the convention should be held in St. Louis. Mr. Rusk represents the Third Maryland district in the present Congress, is chairman of the the present Congress, is chairman of the State Central Democratic Committee, and president of the Calumet Club. He ought therefore to know what he was talking LOUISIANA'S LOTTERY AMENDMENT.

Morris vs. the State Secretary to Compel-Promulgation Thereof.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

New Orleans, La., February 18.—Yesterday in the Supreme Court the mandamus proceedings in the case of John A. Morris, of the Louisiana Lottery Company, vs. Secretary-of-State Mason was called for argument. This action was taken by Morris to compel the Secretary of State to promulgate Act No. 21, known as the lottery amendment. The act provides for the submission to the voters of the State of an amendment to the Constitution by inserting therein an article relative to schools, levees, asylums, churches, drainage, etc. The bill passed the last Legislature by the necessary two thirds vote and was vetoed by the Governor, but both branches of the Legislature refused to consider the Governor's veto and ordered by resolution that the Secretary of State should promulgate the amendment. This he refused to do, and Mr. Morris sued out a writ of mandamus to compel him to [By telegraph to the Dispatch.] ut a writ of mandamus to compel him to

The case was tried before Judge Buckner, of the Seventeenth Judiciary District Court, at Baton Rouge. The case was submitted without argument, and Judge Buckner without giving any reasons refused to make the mandamus peremptory. The case was then appealed to the Supreme Court, where the case is now being argued.

A Train Wrecked in Tennessee-Miracu lous Escape of Passengers. (By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

MEMPHIS, TENN., February 18.—The south-bound limited passenger train on the Hilmois Central railroad, which left Chicago at 3:20 P, M. yesterday, jumped the track near Medina, Tenn., about 4:30 this morning. The cars took fire and are consumed except the rear sleeper, which was saved by the timely arrival of a freight train, the engine of which pulled it away from the burning train. No one was killed, but the escape from death of all on board was miraculous. Ed Silvertooth, baggage-master, and an unknown man and a newsboy were seriously injured. The accident was caused by a broken rail.

CHAIR AND COFFEE-POT. Something Else Hot from the Walter,

There is one man in Richmond who can boast of the proud distinction of having met John Lawrence Sullivan in combat.

The meeting was not, however, voluntary as tar as the champion's opponent was concerned, though it is a fact that as far as the fight went the champion got the worst of it, his adversary discreetly seeking

The big bean-eater was on his mettle during the greater part of his stay in Virginia's capital, and up to Tuesday evening his behavior had been faultiess. After the farewell performance of Honest Hearts and Willing Hands at the Academy that night John went out with the boys and saw something of the town.

As a natural result he was fully conscious yesterday morning that he had quite a considerable head on him. In fact he must have felt as ugly as "Tug O'Brien" looked in the play.

It was about 8 o'clock yesterday morning when Sullivan. Duncan B. Harrison, his partner, Mr. Barnett, their manager, and Miss Nelson, also of the Honest Hearts Company, were taking breakfast in the ladies' dining-room at Murphy's Hotel.

The party were engaged in this agreeable morning task with all the seriousness it demanded, when the champion made it known that he wanted some pepper-sauce, of which condiment he is extremely fond. Calling to "Jeems" Fry, the negro waiter, who was supplying his wants, the Bostonian asked him for the red pepper. Fry picked cut the article called for and set it in front of the big boy.

Again Sullivan called for red pepper and Fry lifted it an inch or so from the table to show that it was there. Fry then left the room.

Once more the champion roared for the pepper and announced that he wanted it hot and he wanted it quick.

As he handed it to Mr. Barnett, Miller explained to him that Fry was not to blame for failing to bring Sullivan the sauce, as he had distinctly called for pepper.

At this juncture Sullivan interposed and wanted to know what the "sheol" Miller had to do with it.

The waiter responded that he was simply telling why the guest had not gotten what he wished.

At this the slugger ripped out another oath.

But the negro, where was he?

place he had discreetly fied. This point is

But Miller was safe on the cupola, from which he patiently awaited the leaving of Sullivan and his friends. He watched them depart from the hotel, and when the train had left he heaved a sigh of relief and returned to terra firma, a queer mixture of fear and pride.

NOT A HEAVY-WEIGHT. Miller is a light-weight as compared with the champion, the former weighing 160 pounds as against the latter's 249 avoirduculty with the waiter at Murphy's. After an interview with the puglistic actor the following was telegraphed:

After the performance at the Academy of Music to-night the Dispatch correspondent interviewed John L. Sullivan in regard to his difficulty with the waiter at Murphy's Hotel in Richmond this morning.

He said the negro took advantage of his familiarity with him and cursed him. Finally, when he attempted to chastise the darky for his impertinence, the latter threw a pot filled with coffee at him and the hot coffee went over his clothing. He endeavored to get at the negro, but he took refuge in flight and concealed himself.

Mr. Sullivan spoke very indignantly about the matter, and he would undoubtabout the matter, and he would undoubt-edly have used the waiter very roughly if he could have gotten at him. He consider-ed himself grossly insulted. He said several of his company were in the dining-room, and blamed the negro for his offensive be-havior. When the waiter raised the chair to strike him, Sullivan caught it firmly in his hand and was not hurt.

As regards his profanity in the dining-room he thinks that creatly exaggerated. The affair, he said, was nothing to be se-rious about. Any man would have acted

It is understood that the company will press their application to the City Council for more room. The roll now numbers seventy-six men, more than enough to man the four guns of the battery, but not enough by seven to man six guns. The necessary seven could, however, be readily enlisted and the additional two guns be easily secured if there was any place to put the latter. So cramped is the armory for room that the company's forge and baggage-wagon have to be kept at the penitentiary in order to protect them from the weather.

Walter Brown (colored), was before Justice Tiller at Henrico Courthouse yesterday afternoon charged with two cases of petit larceny, and in addition thereto with breaking into a house at the Exposition-Grounds and stealing several heas and a game rooster—all of the value of $50. The accused was sent to jail for twelve months for larceny and sent on to the grand jury of the County Court to be tried for felony.

John Goode (colored) was before Justices Vincent and Harris, charged with assaulting Henry Harden. Sr., and son on the public highway. The evidence showed that Harden lost a dog in December. Saturday young Harden and hie father and sister were in the city, and soeing the dog took it in their cart and was going along the Osborne turnpike when the negro stopped the horse and demanded the dog. Harden, Sr., ordered the negro to let gothe horse, whereupon the negro jumped into the eart, trampled on the old man and his danghter, struck young Harden a heavy blow in the face, and then he seized the whip and began to beat young Harden with the staff. About this time a colored man came to the rescue of young Harden. The accused was fined $5 and costs in one case and twice that amount in the other, and was required to give security for his good behavior for twaive months.

The second sermon in the course of Wednesday-night addresses to young people being delivered during Lent at St. John's Episcopal church was preached last night by Rev. Pike Powers, D. D. His text was, "What doth hinder me?" Acts viii., 36. He took up in succession the popular excuses for not professing Christianity and showed their emptiness. His insight into human nature was keen, and the logic with which he punctured the vain pretexts and shams behind which men and women nide their real desire to continue in sin was sharp and quick, like a two-edged sword. Dr. Powers, while disdaining the arts of oratory, is considered an able and strong preacher, and is always so interesting and forceful as to be welcome in every pulpit. second sermon in the course orceful as to be welcome in every pulpit. More Than Four-Score Years.

Mr. James J. P. Fleet, aged eighty-two years and nine months, died day before yesterday at his residence, No. 312 south Laurel street, at 4 o'clock P. Mr. Mr. Fleet was born and raised in King William county, but for many years lived in Goochland, from which place he removed to this city. The deceased was confined to his bed for nearly eight years, and finally died from exhaustion and old age. He had been a prominent member of the Baptist church. His funeral will take place at 2 o'clock A. M. from the Grove-avenue Baptist church.

Thinks He Saw Scott Bishop.

Mr. W. H. Beveridge, Jr., while out hunting day before yesterday about four miles from the city, near the farm of Mr. Lewis Ginter, saw, he thinks, Scott Bishop, the negro man who is wanted at Burkeville for assault and attempt to murder. When seen by Mr. Beveridge the supposed fugitive was walking in company with another negro in the direction of Richmond. He answered to the description of Bishop and wore a striped cap. Mr. Beveridge would have arrested him, but he had not then read the description.

The newly-wedded couple were the recipients of many beautiful and handsome presents, and the namber of these plainly indicated their popularity.

The bride is an exceedingly popular and attractive young lady, while the groom, who is clerk in Auditor Marye's office and Secretary of the Beard of Public Works, is well and favorably known.

The ceremony occurred at the First church because Dr. Hatcher's church is not yet in condition to be occupied.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Isaac Hutzler and Miss Myra Rose were married at the residence of the bride's mother, No. 100 east Clay street.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Kaiser, of Petersburg, and was very quiet, only the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting couple being present. The parlors were handsomely decorated with living plants. The bride and groom stood under a beautiful floral horseshoe, the table near them being banked with choice flowers. The bride looked her best and was attired in a handsome plaid travelling dress.

Among the strangers present were Mrs.
Morris and Mr. Julius Hoffman, of New

When the telegram reached Richmond the weather was oppressively warm, and so continued until about 8 o'clock last night, when the thermometer began to fall

The Committee Named.

Colonel A. S. Buford and Messrs. Thomas P. Campbell and Joseph Bryan constitute the committee of the Virginia State Agricultural and Mechanical Society that is to negotiate for a loan. Several propositions, it is understood, will be made at its first meeting. President Buford has not yet appointed a secretary, but will do so very soon for two reasons—first, there is work that needs immediate attention, and second, that he is tired of receiving applications for the position.

GREAT LOSS OF GOODS ON INUN-DATED LOWER FLOORS.

A Very Large Part of the City Under Water-The Consequent Saffering-Other News.

PITTSBURGH, PA., February 18.—At 1 o'clock this afternoon the flood in the Alleghany river reached thirty-two feet eleven inches, and since then has fallen several feet. The greatest loss is caused to goods in inundated cellars and on first floors, the over-confident owners not anticipating more than a twenty-five-foot riso. The direct loss will exceed $1,000,-000. A special from Wheeling says:

of 000. A special from Wheeling says:

"The damage has been very great here, but it is impossible to estimate the amount at present. Certain it is that much suffering will result, as a very large area of the city is under water. The whole of Wheeling Island (the Seventh Ward) is flooded, and to-night most of its 4,000 inhabitants will aleep on high ground in the main part of the city. In South Wheeling hundreds of houses of workingmen employed in mills and factories are under water, and in the business centre many of the wholesale houses are flooded. The post-office and custom-house is partly surrounded and the basement is filled with water.

BUSINESS SUSPENDED.

Business suspended.

Business is almost entirely suspended. No trains are arriving or departing. The depots are under water and the railroad yards blockaded, the engines and cars standing in water over their wheels. The Stamm and Windsor Hotels both have water on their first floors, and the guests are obliged to go in and out at the windows. It is not thought that there will be a further rise of more than a foot, which will put the water a lattle above the 45-foot stage.

Reports from the down-river glass and Reports from the down-river glass amportery districts also show heavy losses sustained by the flooding of these industries. In spite of the general destruction of property not a single case of loss of life can be directly traced to the flood.

A family living near Rugby, in Grayson county, came near being killed in a singular manner last Friday night. The house they occupy has but one room down stairs, and in this all the inmates slept as well as ate. Overhead they had what is remed a half story in which they stored a loft their winter provisions—corn, bacon, etc. Not long ago nearly 2,000 feet of green lumber was placed in this upper room to dry.

A CURIOUS ACCIDENT.

This made the weight too heavy for the joists to bear, and while the family slept early Friday morning the whole thing collapsed and tumbled in on them. It was some time before any of them could be gotten out, but finally a crowd of neighbors came to their rescue and all were found alive, but several were badly hurt about their bodies and heads, but it is thought they will recover. It is almost miraculous how any escaped with their lives.
